Lynching is no longer epidemic. The South simply pulls one off occasionally, just to keep its hand in.

Have a care lest the enthusiastic bands of small farmers suddenly develop into woods full of Robin Hoods.

There is much to suggest that some believe the full share of free advertising has not been secured from the Stanford case.

Query—Why should the request for a contract with Woods come from those who opposed reorganization of Promotion methods?

Communications by "A Friend of the Chinese" and "Maul Citizen" will be published when those responsible make their names known to the Bulletin office.

The percentage of applicants for certificates who failed to pass the examinations, and the percentage of teachers without certificates whom it is necessary to employ, combine to suggest that although the Hawaii public schools may be wonders in many respects, there is still ample scope for improvement.

The peace situation has within it possibilities for continued war. The probabilities are quite the reverse. The ultimatum of the Czar has all the appearance of a move to save the face of Russia, refuse the demand and then accept it later in a slightly changed form. There can be no doubt that Japan is quite as anxious for peace as Russia. It has made successful war, but taxed its resources to the utmost. If it were to take more Russian territory, Japan would increase the expense of its own administration. What Japan wants most, it will likely not get under any circumstances—a large indemnity.

ONE INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITY

Director Jared Smith, who has conducted the successful experiment in tobacco culture in the Hamakua District, places $25,000 as an approximate figure at which a successful tobacco plantation of several hundred acres might be started.

A wealth of opportunity may be found in this assertion and it will be instructive to note whether the opportunity is grasped.

Not so very long ago, when the price of sugar was very much depressed, Hawaii was face to face with the practical advantage of diversified industry. The people felt that should the sugar industry ever reach a point where a surplus was again in sight, a very liberal portion of that surplus should be expended in aiding the expansion of new industries, whether it be a small farm or a big one.

The price of sugar has advanced. The surplus is now coming in. Money is seeking investment. Very few plantation leaders would hesitate to spend $25,000 in a project that gave reasonable promise of strengthening a sugar estate and bringing in a fair income. Far more than $25,000 has been expended in experiments that had probable failure staring them in the face from the outset.

Here is a proposition which not only offers good return but will strengthen the Territory—and do the sugar industry no harm. What will the men with the surplus do with it?

HYPOCRISY OF JUSTICE

Among the national weeklies none has done more to display hypocrisy of high places in its true light than Collier's. Sometimes it takes a tack which causes many of its readers to express the opinion that it struck the wrong hypocrite, but as a rule it holds close to the line.

One of its most recent comments brings out a line of thought very much to the fore these days, when small thieves are sent to jail and the big ones are rolling in luxury, while setting the pace of "subtocracy." Collier's says:

One of our subscribers writes to us the following: "I come to you as one most able to help me at this time. I have in the Mutual Life of New York a policy for $20,000, twenty-payment life, and have paid six premiums. I also have a policy for $10,000, and one for $20,000, on both of which I have paid but one premium, and my second premium is now due. Inclosed you will find a clipping which makes me hesitate before I pay my premiums. Would you advise me to continue all or part of these premiums, or put the same amount in four per cent. bonds? I am a young man twenty-seven years old, with wife and two children. Kindly let me hear from you as soon as possible." Thousands of such troubled men, with wives and children, are watching the Equitable complications with a terror too easily forgotten by prospering officials. Judge Foster, in sentencing a young Equitable clerk whose thefts had been direct, made a fundamental distinction. "You stole from the Equitable," said his Honor, "but your methods were very crude and bungling. If you had, instead of collusion with an outsider, colluded with an insider, and thereby had your salary raised to $50,000, and then divided with the other men, the result would not have been a bit more objectionable, from a moral and ethical standpoint, and would have been no more hurtful to the policyholders, but possibly you would not have been at the bar of justice." Incidents of this character are by ing brought to light in such profusion that the people are beginning to realize that they are responsible for a form of justice that is hypocrisy of the highest type. The awakening has been tremendous and it will be strange if something does not come of it, which will bring justice for the rich and the poor more closely to an even footing.

OFFICIALS BRAVE DANGERS TOGETHER

Superintendent of Public Works C. S. Holloway and Attorney General Andrews have arranged to make a tour of inspection of the sea walls at Waikeke, where the Territory wants a right of way. The walk will probably be a hazardous one, as the walls sometimes drop fully a dozen feet where they adjoin each other. Holloway is said to have taken his recent trip up Maunakea merely as an exercise to get in form for this voyage and neither of the two officials seems especially keen to go.

At the aquarium the two departmental heads will have to brave most unusual dangers, as the shark tank forms the boundary of the lot towards the sea. On one side they will have the roaring billows of the ocean while on the other side the sharp fangs of the shark will undoubtedly water as it sees the toothsome forms of Holloway and Andrews glide sylph like above it. It is possible that the trip may be postponed to some other day.

Judge Robinson this morning referred the tenth annual accounts of the trustees of the Chas. R. Bishop Trust to M. T. Simonton as master. The twentieth annual accounts of the trustees of the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Estate were referred to W. R. Sims.

The final accounts of Wahinehewa Naewa as administratrix of the estate of Ben Kaunahi were this morning approved and the administratrix ordered discharged.

W. C. Crook this morning had his final accounts as administrator of the estate of Jas. King approved and was ordered discharged.

The hearing of the report of Carlos A. Long as master of the estate of R. W. Holt has been continued until Friday.

Lawyer Dan O'Reilly was vigorously arguing a case in the West Side court the other day, when Magistrate Wahl interrupted him with the question: "Is this Diogenes?" The crowd on the bridge turned around and saw one of the prison keepers bearing a lighted lantern through the aisle. "Yes, that is Diogenes," replied O'Reilly, "but he won't find the man he is looking for here."—New York Sun.

DUNNE IS DISGUSTED

Chicago, July 15.—It was reported from Glasgow, Scotland, today that Mayor Dunne had cabled to James Dalrymple, manager of the Scottish Cities Municipal Street Railways, asking for a further report on possible municipal ownership in Chicago. As Dalrymple's letter, sent to Mayor Dunne two weeks ago and expressing his general views on municipal ownership, has not yet been made public by the Mayor, it is inferred by the Mayor's critics that the letter contained expressions not calculated to help the cause of municipal ownership. Dalrymple is quoted from Glasgow as expressing surprise both at the fact that his letter was not made public by Mayor Dunne and also because he should be asked to make a second report. Dalrymple refused to tell the contents of the letter. He is, however, quoted as saying:

"My observation in Chicago convinces me that the municipalization of the street car systems, without remodeling the entire principle on which the corporation is governed, does not present the elements of success." Mayor Dunne refused to comment on the report from Glasgow or to say when he would make public the report.

WHY CURZON RESIGNED

London, July 15.—The struggle for supremacy between Lord Curzon, the Viceroy of India, and Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief of the military forces, continues. When Lord Curzon threatened to resign if he did not have his way, Lord Kitchener hurried to follow his example, and General Elles actually did resign. So far Lord Kitchener has been successful. He set out to make a complete reform of the Indian military organization on the grounds that it was useless for war conditions. These reforms were handicapped by the military member of the Viceroy's council, General Elles, who had the right to refuse laying them before the Viceroy.

As the commander-in-chief is not the man to be balked in the work he has set out to do, he laid the case before the home government and threatened to resign unless he was freed from the clog upon his actions. The clog was removed. In other words, General Elles resigned on having his powers curtailed.

The commander-in-chief is doing his best to get the Indian army in a state of readiness for war; the Viceroy is engaged in attending to India's existing needs, such as famine and plague relief and preparing for the future of the empire by the starting of his great irrigation scheme which, in time, may make disastrous famines impossible.

Grand Clearance Sale OF LADIES READY-TO-WEAR APPAREL, Beginning FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 1st., AT 8 A. M.

This sale is for the purpose of clearing out the balance of the past season's stock, preparatory to our annual stock-taking, and in anticipation of Fall shipments now being purchased by our buyer in the New York markets. DON'T think, from a perusal of the following prices, that any of the goods offered are trashy, damaged or worthless. They are all in first-class condition,—we wouldn't sell you any other kind. These goods will occupy our entire window space until the day of sale, each garment being marked with former and sale prices. An inspection of same cannot fail to repay your trouble.

AFTER A PARDON

High Sheriff Henry this morning called on the Acting Governor with a request that Joe Cordeiro, who is now in prison on Hawaii for cattle stealing, be pardoned or paroled. One of the Hilo Board of Prison Inspectors made the same request. Cordeiro has served most of his two years' term, which will expire next May. His wife has to work hard to support herself and four children while her husband is in jail. The Governor promised to consider the matter if another member of the Board would join in the recommendation.
